

Soviets' Request Rejected

Marshall and Bevin Sharply Rebuke Molotov in Frigid Session of Council

By John M. Hightower
MOSCOW, March 18—(AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Marshall today coldly rejected the Soviet Union's bid for $10,000,000,000 reparations from Germany.

In one of the most frigid sessions of the Council of Foreign Ministers thus far, the American secretary and British foreign secretary Ernest Bevin also sharply rebuked the Soviet minister for his charges that Britain, the United States and France had taken $10,000,000,000 in reparations in the western zones.

Bevin retorted that Molotov's statements "are not true."

Marshall declared that Big Three agreements at Potsdam superseded those of Yalta, and told the Soviet minister firmly that "We will not follow the retreat of Mr. Molotov from Berlin to Yalta." Molotov claimed yesterday that at Yalta the Big Three had agreed on the $10,000,000,000 figure for reparations to be paid Russia by Germany.

Cool Session
The eighth session was one of the coolest of the conference to date. The charged atmosphere among the Big Four, which thus far had been most friendly, developed after French foreign minister Georges Bidault made a statement on France's demands for separation of the Ruhr, the Rhineland and the Saar from Germany. Bidault told the council that Allied controls must be retained over Germany long after a peace settlement is concluded and the present occupation is ended.

Molotov asserted that the United States and the United Kingdom had taken as reparations all the gold and German assets in the west as well as the patents and scientific information.

He charged that France, Great Britain and the United States had taken reparations from current production in the form of lumber and coal and that all these amounted to more than $10,000,000,000, "according to newspaper reports."

Never Claimed Ownership
Marshall countered that the United States never had claimed ownership of the gold, which was being held for distribution by the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency in Brussels, and that, furthermore, Hungary's gold already had been returned.

The American secretary said all money received from the export of lumber and coal had been "poughed back" into Germany.

The secretaries agreed, before the argument, to hear two representatives of the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency present their views on reparations. Members of the agency will first present their views to the deputy foreign ministers, who will decide whether the foreign ministers themselves should hear the report.

Denial by France
France, like the United States, denied receiving any reparations from current German production and said that coal had been paid for in dollars which supported the German economy.

Bevin declared that he had "read these charges in the Soviet press and had had a good laugh over them."

The British foreign secretary added that he agreed with Marshall that recriminations should be avoided but that he had had to answer Molotov's charges because "they are not true."

Bevin said it was true that scientific information had been compiled, but that it had been placed in a book which was available to everyone, including Russia.

Marshall added that the information was placed in pamphlets of "which the Soviet Union had received the largest number."

Here to Assist With State Tax Reports

J. C. Elliott, Jr., with the state income tax department, Jefferson City, is in Sedalia and will be here through Friday, to assist citizens in making out their state income tax reports. He will be on the second floor of the court house.

The state has extended its deadline for filing returns from March 15 to April.

Governor Vetoes Two More Bills

JEFFERSON CITY, March 18—(AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly vetoed two more bills today, bringing his two-day total to seven bills vetoed and six signed. So far this session he has signed 39 and vetoed 11.

Like four of the measures disapproved yesterday, the two sent back without his signature today were routine revision bills. They would change a few words to make existing laws conform with a new governmental setup established under the 1945 constitution.

St. Louis Exceeds Its Red Cross Quota

ST. LOUIS, March 18—(AP)—The St. Louis metropolitan area exceeded its Red Cross drive quota today, leading cities of a million or more population for the third consecutive year, as contributions reached $749,198.

Whitelaw T. Terry, campaign chairman, said the money received was $6,000 above the $743,000 quota for 1947. He declared the drive was continuing until March 31.

'The Science Of Good Cheer' Topic of Talk

Given to Optimists At Noon Luncheon By Kansas Citian

"Live, laugh and love; comes a time when you can't" was the credo set forth by Dr. Andreas Bard, D. D., L. D., pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church of Kansas City, Thirty-eighth street and Troost avenue, in a talk before the members of the Sedalia Optimist club at a luncheon meeting held at noon today in the Ambassador room at the Bothwell hotel.

In opening his talk Dr. Bard said that an appropriate title for his speech to the Optimist club could be "The Science of Good Cheer."

Dr. Bard reiterated the adage "Live, laugh and love; comes a time when you can't" on several occasions throughout his talk, emphasizing the importance of this maxim in our everyday lives.

Said Dr. Bard, "Do not look for the big, wonderful things but learn to appreciate what you have. Have a mind, a heart and a soul to be aware of what fate and fortune have granted you."

How to be Rich
"A person is not rich because he has an abundance of wealth and the 'nice' things of life," he stated, "but more so because of their appreciation of what they do have."

The study of values was next discussed by the doctor who asserted the real values in life are invisible things.

"A house is a house but a home is another thing. Taken as a material subject, the flag is a flag, merely a piece of cloth. But the idealism embodied by that flag far exceeds the material symbol in importance."

Compensation of Old Age
At first, according to Dr. Bard, old age held doubts and fears for him but now he realizes it has compensations.

"I now have a calmer view and a broader perspective. The tide of passion has receded but in its place almost unlimited horizons have been opened to me."

Concluded Dr. Bard, "The trouble with the world today is a lack of human brotherhood. The air is full of confusion. Men's minds are full of fear. The basic fault lies not with the optimist who believes in Faith, Hope and Love, but with the pessimists who take a defeatist attitude concerning the future."

Professional Contest Rodeo Here May 2-4

Announcement By Chamber of Commerce Officers

The largest rodeo in the history of the state of Missouri will appear in Sedalia May 2, 3 and 4, according to Elsworth Green, Jr., secretary-manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, and Robert Overstreet, chairman of the special activities committee of the chamber.

Although it would be preferable to hold the rodeo in open air, tentative plans have been made because of the changeable aspect of the weather to hold it in the coliseum at the State Fair grounds. There remains a slight possibility however of its being held in the open air, in which case the race track at the fairgrounds would be utilized. But, of course, all depends on Old Man Weather.

Jerry Rippeau, Corpus Christi, Texas, a partner in the rodeo producing firm of McGuffin and Rippeau is in Sedalia making plans for the coming event in cooperation with the local Chamber of Commerce. He is accompanied by Frank Mariam, champion broncho and bull rider, and Walt Ernest, champion bulldogger.

Popular Sport
According to Rippeau, the rodeo was second in popularity only to baseball in the field of sports last year.

Four thousand dollars in prize money is being set up for this rodeo which is approved by the Rodeo Contest Association of America as a professional contest rodeo. Although top trick riders, specialty acts and an outstanding feature in rodeo, women bronco riders, will appear, it will all be in the spirit of competition without any exhibits.

Contestants for this event will come to Sedalia from many different sections of the United States. In a contest rodeo each contestant pays an entry fee which is added to the prize money. This will make the final amount of the prize money far more than $4,000. All expenses are paid by the contestants themselves and no one receives a salary as they are competing for the prize money.

However, if a local person wishes to enter the contest and is able to prove that he is from

'Remember, No Child was Ever Born Bad,' States Rep. Gross

By Arthur L. Edson

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—An expert in the perils of parenthood has given Congress the lowdown on how to raise children. "And it's no old maid speaking to you," Rep. Chester Gross (R-Pa.), told the House yesterday.

"I had eight kids of my own, and took four others into my home to raise. For 20 years I had 10 or more at my table."

What has Gross learned? That there's no such thing as juvenile delinquency.

"Let's be honest about this," said Gross. "It's the parents who are to blame."

Discipline has busted down all over, he said.

"If your kid gets into trouble, lick him," advised Gross. "If his teacher gives him a licking, lick him again when he gets home."

But he told a reporter later that there's more to the Gross method than this.

Must Gain Confidence
"A parent has to gain — and maintain — the confidence of his children," he said. "He has to set an example for them, too."

"For instance, a parent shouldn't send his kids to Sunday school or church. He should take 'em."

"Why, back on the farm, our crowd used to fill two whole pews every Sunday."

Gross said, sure, he knows that raising city children is harder than it was in the country.

"A kid on the farm was an asset," he said, "and you always knew where he was. In town, well, they're expensive, and it's hard to keep up with 'em."

"But the principle is the same. It's the responsibility of the parents to keep 'em straight."

A parting shot from Papa Gross: "Remember, no child ever was born bad."

Amount of Frozen Fish Eaten in Feb.

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—People ate 29,000,000 pounds of the nation's frozen fish reserves during February, the Fish and Wildlife Service said today. It was the second largest one month decline on record.

Frozen fish stocks in public cold storage plants went down from 127,000,000 pounds Feb. 1 to 98,000,000 March 1.

Highway Bill In
JEFFERSON CITY, March 18—(AP)—A bill to give the state highway department twice as much money to build and maintain Missouri's highway system was introduced in the house of representatives yesterday.

It would double the present two cents a gallon motor fuel tax and turn all the revenue over to the department as the constitution requires. The current tax is the lowest in the nation.

Seize Pure Heroin
NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—The alertness of a port patrol officer led to the seizure aboard the French freighter, St. Tropez, of 459 ounces of pure heroin, valued in the illicit drug market at $1,147,500 and described by port authorities as the largest seizure of narcotics ever made in the port of New York.

Chicago, March 18—(AP)—Grain futures prices broke sharply on the board of trade in the late part of the trading session today.

March wheat, which had sold at $3.05 a bushel early in the session, dropped the daily permissible limit of ten cents off as much as 18½ cents from the early high.

The reaction in wheat, which also pushed the other grains downward, was the result of a report that the government was negotiating with interests in Kansas City, which owned commodity credit Corp., March wheat, to deliver instead spring wheat at the opening of Great Lakes navigation.

This, traders said, would in effect make more wheat available to millers and short interests in the present March contracts.

An ordinance was passed changing the property of Vernon R. Shull, 1501 East Fourteenth street from a one family house zone to a business zone.

Lizzie O'Brien was granted a license to sell 3.2 beer at 2616 East Broadway.

Cline Cain Makes Report On Flight Stop

Finance Chairman For a Tax Cut, Report on Streets

Cline Cain, chairman of the City Council building committee, which includes airport activities, reported at the regular meeting of the Council Monday night, on the appeal made by Wm. F. Brown, city attorney, to the Civil Aeronautics board asking to have transcontinental airlines, where the routes pass this way stop at the Sedalia field.

Cain and Brown made the trip to Washington for this purpose and Cain stated they were very hopeful of receiving the consideration asked for. At a prior hearing Sedalia was placed on a feeder line, which Brown explained to the board, was not now sufficient for a city the size and in the location of Sedalia. In many instances, they learned, this ruling has been changed where applications were later made by cities similar to Sedalia.

Looks Toward Tax Cut
Elmer Summers, chairman of the finance committee, reporting on finances, stated he believed he could and would at a meeting in the near future, before the budget is set for the next fiscal year, to recommend a ten per cent reduction in real estate taxes, and to drop the poll tax entirely. The Council, he said, has been endeavoring to equalize taxes, so that the big fellow and the little fellow pay their share proportionately. They are to meet with auditors of the light, phone and gas companies, he said, and hope to get a little more money from them. With that, he added Sedalia will be one of the best set up cities in the state. Most cities, he said, adding that he had recently visited seven, are in bad shape financially, looked for ways and means to raise operating funds.

John Taylor, third ward, reported that after talking to John Lueck, fire chief, he wanted to ask an ordinance be prepared providing for a fire plug at Twenty-sixth street and Ingram avenue and at Twentieth street and Ingram avenue.

An ordinance was passed changing the property of Vernon R. Shull, 1501 East Fourteenth street from a one family house zone to a business zone.

Lizzie O'Brien was granted a license to sell 3.2 beer at 2616 East Broadway.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) estimated today that a federal social welfare budget of one billion a year may be required eventually to improve living conditions of the American people.

Taft testified before the senate banking committee on legislation to set up a long-range housing program calling for construction of 15,000,000 new homes by 1958.

He estimated the ultimate cost of the housing program at $150,000,000 a year. In addition, he said, there is pending legislation to provide educational aid calling for a $250,000,000 annual outlay and another program for the health assistance costing about $225,000,000 a year.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.
March 18—(AP)—Spurred by appeal from Poland for action, the United Nations worked today on the final details for the first meeting of the United Nations commission for conventional armaments.

The secretariat could not say yet just when that meeting would be held, but it was evident after the security council met last night that the delegates were anxious for at least a start on the momentous task of limiting the world's arms and reducing armed forces everywhere.

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—House GOP leaders gave increasing signs today of leaning to the conclusion that small incomes must receive preferred treatment in any bill to slash income taxes this year.

One high ranking Republican told reporters privately he doubts the votes can be mustered to pass the measure by Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) of the ways and means committee which would give taxpayers large and small a cut of 20 percent across the board.

TOKYO, March 18—(AP)—Japanese today acclaimed General MacArthur's press conference declaration as the strongest, most detailed exposition of Japan's present position the world has heard.

ST. LOUIS, March 18—(AP)—Ernest A. Gunkel, former war assets administration salesman charged with soliciting and accepting a bribe, pleaded guilty in U. S. district court yesterday and Federal Judge Richard M. Duncan announced he would pass sentence March 31.

Gunkel, 47, was accused of accepting money from an Atlanta, Ga., business man to arrange for the purchase of certain scarce electrical equipment held by the WAA.

Oppose 'Party Managers'

Vandenberg Steps Down From Rostrum To Criticize Sullivan Proposal

WASHINGTON, March 17—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) said today bipartisan foreign policy will "die in revolt" if Americans yield to the political dictates of "party managers" on proposed aid to Greece and Turkey.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee stepped down from the rostrum of the Senate's presiding officer to criticize from the floor a proposal made last night by Gael Sullivan, executive director of the Democratic National Committee, to Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman.

Sullivan called on Reece to join in a two-party statement endorsing a President Truman's policy of combating Communism by helping Greece and Turkey. Vandenberg predicted Reece will refuse, and said:

"When bi-partisan foreign policy gets into the rival hands of partisan national committees it is in grave danger of losing its precious character."

Doesn't Speak For Party
Vandenberg said he has "never even pretended to speak for my party" in foreign policy activities, and declared that bi-partisan foreign policy is "not the result of political coercion but of non-political conviction." He continued:

"What I decline to do for myself I cannot permit the executive director of the Democratic National Committee to attempt in my name."

BETTER THAN PILLS FOR CONSTIPATION

Finds Famous Breakfast Cereal Most Helpful of All

Have you given up hope of being "regular" again? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I am a registered nurse and I know what a problem constipation is, especially with patients deprived of their usual physical activities. Where pills brought temporary relief, eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly actually prevented irregularity in more cases than I can mention. Your product is a great boon to our modern age." Miss Katherine E. Walsh, Town Hall, Newington, Conn.

Yes, eating ALL-BRAN regularly often brings lasting relief from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. For best results, eat it for breakfast every day—and drink plenty of water. Try KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for 10 days! If by that time you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan, and get double your money back!

ALL-BRAN is not a purgative but a wholesome food made from the vital outer layers of a whole wheat. Eat daily either as a cereal, or in muffins. Ask your grocer for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, March 18—Every administration has its hangers on who love to bask in the lime-light focusing on the White House. One of the most amazing figures seen in Washington since the Harding administration is a Greek born ex-bootblack from Kansas City named John Maragon, who bobs in and out of the White House like a shuttlecock.

Maragon traveled to the famed Potsdam conference and was sent on a special mission to Greece. Because of his devotion to the king of Greece and the position he holds around the executive offices, this so-called "Greek adviser" is growing widespread curiosity.

Trips to Europe
It was less than an hour after Franklin Roosevelt died that John Maragon arrived at the White House to console and congratulate his old friend Harry Truman. Thereafter he was given a special White House pass, plus a reserved parking place for his car just outside the executive offices. He accompanied the Roosevelt funeral train to Hyde Park, and shortly thereafter turned up in Potsdam along with Truman, Byrnes, Churchill and Stalin. Obviously he could not have made Potsdam without the blessing of the president of the United States for transportation and housing were so tight that some members of the state department and the Pauley reparations mission were left behind in Paris.

Since then Maragon has taken two other junkets to Europe, one to France to buy up French perfumes and the other to his native Greece, where he got himself made an official member of the Allied mission for observing Greek elections. In this capacity, however, he got into trouble and was yanked home.

Maragon first drew attention back in Missouri as an agent for the FBI when William J. Burns was operating that agency. The narcotics racket at that time centered around Leavenworth, Kas., and Maragon was taken on to help track down the racketeers. He was shortly dropped from the FBI, however, for unexplained reasons and later came to Washington, where he became a bad debt collector and credit investigator for several banks.

In the Social Whirl
Eventually Maragon went to work for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, where he was contacted by man with congress and renewed his acquaintance with Harry Truman, then senator from Missouri. Maragon's job was to arrange funeral trains for deceased congressmen and other special transportation. Salary $3,000.

Maragon's income later zoomed to $15,000, paid by a perfume importer, Dave Bennett. Bennett's yacht was placed at his disposal. One famous Maragon entertainment was a perfume party at which a group of Washington socialites and wives of the "little cabinet" waited at the airport for the arrival of a TWA Constellation carrying a consignment of perfumes back from France. Bottles were passed out to the ladies present.

Secret service operatives charged with guarding the president by this time had objected to Maragon's constant presence around the White House, but it did no good. He continued to use his White House pass and his special parking place. Furthermore he flattered the admirals by turning up with Truman on the presidential destroyer at the navy day fleet review in New York. He even sat next to the president's box with White House military aide Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan during the Army-Navy game and had enough influence to get a compartment for himself on the special train which carried the president to Philadelphia.

Maragon is an intimate friend of the Rev. Thomas Daniel and Archbishop Athenagoras, the two Greek royalists who conferred with the president not long ago. Of late, the influence of this individual is reported to be on the downgrade as far as the president is concerned. But it is not on the downgrade with Truman's military aide. Maragon is frequently seen riding in Vaughan's car and entertains the general in the swank Carlton hotel apartment which is now Maragon's headquarters.

Home, School Health Program Theme of Talk at Sorosis

"Home, School Health Program" was the subject of the address presented Monday afternoon at Sorosis by Dr. Dean F. Smiley, of Chicago, in which he said that there should be a health and physical fitness program carried out in the life of children from birth to maturity.

Dr. Smiley stated that the neglect of the health of the children in the United States was discovered when thirty per cent of the boys drafted were not fit for the service.

The health of a child, the speaker said, should begin with prenatal care. The mother should be under the care of a physician and at least the first baby born should be born at a hospital.

Guard Against Diseases At six months of age the baby should be inoculated for whooping cough and diphtheria; at nine to twelve months for smallpox. The child will be in perfect condition by the time it enters school, and the pre-school child should be watched carefully. Dr. Smiley said.

An immunization school program should be carried out with an examination of each child every morning to prevent the spread of contagious diseases, the speaker said. Parents should observe their children closely and continuously for defects. A degree of deafness, eye trouble and various other things wrong with a child can be found better by the parents than by teachers at school. A vast majority of defects found in children are correctable. Dr. Smiley said.

The school is an ideal place for health programs and dental and medical association. The Red Cross and various organizations should co-operate in such programs, he said. The child in this country today, the speaker said, has an excellent change of reaching sixty-five years of age, while in India the average age is only twenty-eight.

Stress Safety in Driving The high school health education should stress safety in driving cars, danger in the use of stimulants. The home can do more to discourage the use of alcohol and tobacco. Pipe smoking is the most injurious of all tobacco uses, with cigars next and cigarettes last, Dr. Smiley said. Gastric ulcers are often caused by cigar smoking. The use of tobacco frequently causes restlessness and interferes with sleep. Chronic smoking shortens life and the use of tea, coffee and cold drinks increase the heart rate. Young people should not indulge in smoking or drinking until past twenty-five because of the injury to their health, the speaker said. The answer to the problem of the forming of these habits of high school children is through moral discipline and a philosophy of life, the speaker concluded.

Dr. Smiley was introduced by Mrs. D. P. Dyer.

Miss Helen Bowers announced that next week there will be a musical program presented by students of Christian college, Columbia.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. D. S. Lamm, president.

'Bull Market' Operator Dies

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—William C. Durant, 85, shrewd "bull market" operator who twice held and twice lost control of General Motors, died today in the quiet Gramercy Park apartment where he spent his last years after a declaration of bankruptcy.

Only his wife and nurse were present when he died at 2:15 a.m. He had been ill since October, 1942.

A super salesman of ideas, a daring plunger in investments, Durant was also an able judge of the automotive industry, knowing the trade from its earliest transition from wagon manufacturing.

Ill and in reduced circumstances, though far from impoverished Durant retained an active interest in American business. On his 85th birthday last Dec. 8 he said he saw a big future for American industry at home and abroad, declaring, "quality is more important today than ever before."

He was organizer of the General Motors corporation in 1908. Starting in 1936 with a capital of $1,000, part of it borrowed, he built and lost successive fortunes which at one time amounted to $90,000,000.

J. Lee Brandt then introduced, Rev. L. A. Swan, pastor of the Trinity English Lutheran church who after a short introduction presented Dr. Bard.

Fred H. Fulkerson, manager of the Public Loan Corporation and Dr. Marvin Crutcher were introduced as new members.

America's Voice in Moscow

On his way up the ladder, Marshall had risen to lieutenant-colonel in 1918 when he posed (above) with two superior officers in Paris; he was a full colonel when he stood with Gen. John J. Pershing (below). But the promotions were temporary, despite his masterful planning of the Meuse-Argonne operation, for which Pershing gave him full credit.

By Marc J. Parsons
NEA Staff Correspondent

Capt. George Catlett Marshall caught himself against the bulkhead as the S.S. Baltic recovered from a long roll. He wondered for a moment how long it would be before he regained his sea legs. Then he went back to his paper work.

Marshall was assistant chief of staff for operations for the U.S. First Division. He was en route to France and World War I. It was June, 1917.

A few weeks before he had never even heard of the First Division. It didn't exist. At this moment it existed only as a body of untrained troops, without organization, with little equipment of its own except its Springfield rifles. Everything else was confused.

Marshall had heard that the Division would wear British helmets, use French artillery, tanks and planes. He had gotten a single copy of a British manual which gave a little information of the fighting to come. Beyond that he knew very little. Remembering it afterwards, he said: "Not until we arrived in France did I ever see what organization was!"

"I remember specifically reading about a trench mortar unit. I had never seen a trench mortar and here I was, a general staff officer of the division which contained such an organization."

"We were especially interested in the trench mortar unit. Did they have weapons? We wanted to make sure. We discovered that all they had was men. They had never seen the weapons, knew nothing about their employment, and there they were 3,000 miles from home, in France, with 80 per cent recruits in their ranks."

"That is the way we went to war in 1917."

The whole problem of insufficient training weighed heavily on Marshall. Before the First Division went into action he watched an inspecting French general examine an American infantryman's rifle. During the inspection, the doughboy calmly sat down and rolled a cigarette.

"I saw these men later on a series of terrible battlefields where they established an outstanding reputation, but at that moment they were not soldiers."

Marshall had his first brush with Gen. John J. Pershing about that time. Had Marshall been in the wrong it might have wrecked the career he was so carefully building. Instead it won him the respect of the commanding general of the AEF.

Pershing, on an inspection trip, expressed dissatisfaction with the showing of some troops on maneuvers. Other officers accepted the criticism; not Marshall. Carefully he explained to Pershing that the men had been allowed only one day preparation for an exceedingly complicated problem. They should have been given at least two weeks, Marshall insisted.

Pershing looked startled for a moment, then snapped:

"You're right!"

Marshall went into action with the first American troops. Before the war ended, he says, "I saw 27 of our 29 divisions in action. I know just what our lack of preparation cost."

Marshall arose to Major, lieutenant colonel and then to colonel, but the promotions were temporary. While still on the staff of the First Division his old commander, Gen. Johnson Hagood, asked that Marshall be transferred to his command. He was told:

"You can't have Marshall, Marshall is the First Division."

Nevertheless, Marshall left the First Division for the operations section of General Headquarters, AEF, and when Pershing formed the First Army he brought Marshall into his operations section.

There Marshall performed one of the greatest military planning operations of all times.

The Allied High Command had decided to launch an attack on the St. Mihiel sector and, when the front there was stabilized, to begin other offensive at Meuse-

LOOK OUT FOR PIN-WORMS

Recent medical reports reveal that an amazing number of children (and grown-ups too) may be victims of Pin-Worms—often without suspecting what is wrong! And these pests, living inside the human body, can cause real distress. So watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms—especially the aggravating rectal itch. Get JAYNE'S P-W and follow the directions. P-W is the Pin-Worm treatment developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, after years of patient research. The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms. Ask your druggist: P-W for Pin-Worms!

Argonne. Pershing asked for the assignment for his troops, and Marshall was given the task of getting them into position for both operations.

He had to move 220,000 French and Italian troops from St. Mihiel and move in 600,000 Americans between Sept. 1 and 12, when the first attack was to start. Then, after about four days, he had to withdraw nearly 400,000 Americans from St. Mihiel, move them 60 miles to Meuse-Argonne and have them ready for the second phase of the operation on Sept. 24.

In addition to the 1,220,000 men involved, the shift required transfer of 2700 field pieces, 40,000 tons of ammunition, 93,000 horses and mules, 34 field hospitals, food and other supplies.

It all had to be accomplished at night, without lights, so that no hint of the movement would reach the German General Staff until the attacks were launched. Marshall established 9 new railheads, over 80 supply depots. His time-table meshed every point along the complicated route.

On the night of Sept. 24, the Americans were ready at Meuse-Argonne. The only complaint registered against the operation: Premier Clemenceau's car was caught in traffic one night.

The big push started Sept. 26, catching the Germans completely by surprise. When it bogged down a few weeks later, Marshall was jumped from assistant to Chief of Staff for operations and ordered to get it rolling once more.

He laid his plans carefully and launched the new offensive on Nov. 1. As the attack mounted in intensity and the Germans began retreating again, he issued daily orders to the American troops correctly estimating the position of the German lines 24 hours in advance. The attack was still rolling ahead when the cease fire order came Nov. 11.

The entire operation has been called a masterpiece of staff work. Pershing gave Marshall full credit. "It was a stupendous task," Pershing wrote. "It seldom happens in war that plans can be carried out so precisely."

Marshall was a marked man in the American Army.

Place: National Guard Armory.

They will be at it again tonight at the National Guard armory when the Australian team match is to be presented by Pettis
County Post 16, American Legion as part of their regular weekly wrestling show. The participants in the match indicate plenty of action and thrills for the fans.

The return of Roy "Cowboy" Graham, Corsicana, Texas, to the ring pleases a lot of fans in spite of the fact they dislike him and his tactics as a wrestler. Graham is teamed with Marvin Jones of Amarillo, Texas, to meet the team composed of Vic Christy, Van Nuys, Calif., and Jack Kennedy of Dallas, Texas.

It will be the first chance
Christy has had to meet the "Terrible Terror" from Texas.
He is wondering if his flying scissors will work on the man with the flowing mustache. Incidentally, it is said Graham lost that mustache in Texas, but when last seen here he wore a neat flowing piece of hair on the upper lip.

Kennedy and Graham had some difficulties several months ago and Kennedy no doubt will endeavor to "even up" tonight.

Opening the evening's entertainment of wrestling (Texas rules) will be a special event bringing together "Wild Bill"
Bartush of Chicago, Ill., and Al
Alexander of New York City.
There always has been and always will be some jealousy between New York and Chicago and fans wonder if it will invade the wrestling ring in Sedalia.

From the participants of both events, every indication is the blood pressure of the fans can be pushed up over normal tonight.

Supported by Racehorse For Sixty Years

By Hal Boyle
ABOARD A BUS IN FLORIDA
(P)—I have met a number of men who lived happily on their wives money, but today for the first time I met one who had been supported for more than sixty years by racehorses.

No minister ever preached a sterner sermon against gambling than this elderly tout, a neatly dressed dried up little character who was crowding 80 years.

"Going out to the track?" he asked as he sat down.

"No."

"Good. Anybody that plays horses is crazy," he snarled. "It's a losing game. Been doing it for sixty years, managed to keep even myself. But I know horses. Made a lot of gamblers rich in my time."

"Took $1,500 out of Hialeah the last week. Probably lose it up north next month. Yep, I follow them the year round. It's a nice hobby for an old man with nothing else to do."

"Had a good time in Florida?"

"Hates Many Things"

"Now, I hate Florida. Had aches and pains in my legs for the first time in my life when I started coming here. Wouldn't come here if it wasn't for the horses. Hate the people. Worst in the world."

"They'd take your teeth, those people—if they could. Well, they're beginning to close up the big hotels now. People starting north again. Now these crackers will have to go back to living on fish for the summer. I wouldn't throw them a sardine."

"The sun is the only real thing here. Everything else is a racket."

The old tout grumbled contently against Florida for another ten miles, then began snarling again when I asked if he were married.

"Another racket," he exploded. "No, I stayed single because all the way. Never worked at a regular job in my life either. Never will. All my brothers did. Are they any happier?"

The old man brooded.

"World is nuts," he said, "the whole world is nuts. They try to justify the racetracks here by saying they help pay old age pensions. That's crazy, too."

"If they closed every racetrack business men could collect their bills. Anyway the people who go to racetracks wind up on the public welfare rolls, so how are you ahead? Everything's a racket."

Auction At College To Raise Relief Fund

WICHITA, Kas., March 18—(P)—A "coke date" with an attractive and popular young math teacher drew a $4 bid, but an offer of a quiet evening in a male professor's living room found no takers as friends university students raised $74.50 at auction yesterday for the relief of the war-ravaged Hungarian village they have adopted—Sarkeresztz.

Glenn Summers, "GI" senior from Bazine, Kas., paid the $4 for the privilege of buying the "coke" for pretty Miss Kjersti Swanson, math instructor, but the high bid of $14 came from a freshman, Miss Adet George of Wichita, a hand-woven rug contributed by Miss Juliet Reeve, a faculty sponsor of the relief drive.

Prof. Kenneth Andrew, physics instructor, sold, cooked and served a bacon-and-egg breakfast for $1 while other bidders paid $3.50 for a waffle supper for six, proffered by Mrs. Mary Greenfield, English teacher; $2.25 for two pounds of precious sugar from Mrs. Maxine Ball, professor's wife, who offered free fudge-making rights in her kitchen; $4 for "a quiet evening by the fire" with two senior girls; and $5.50 for a tour of the city's "highlights" with young and unmarried Prof. Harold Kolling.

Miss Elsie Sata, Salt Lake City senior, bought professor Kolling's tour—and time.

Offers To Do Ironing

Six senior boys offered to do a 20-piece ironing—bidders were skeptically silent.

It all started as a suggestion for practical European relief, made at last spring's baccalaureate, Miss Reeve explained.

Its buildings destroyed, stock killed or driven off, and croplands ravaged in the German invasion, Budapest representative of the Friends Service committee, came word that the most urgent need was for shoes for the 124 children crowding in relays into the one intact room left in Sarkeresztz's school. The shoes—and stockings—were forwarded last month. Friends students "bought" them for $1.50 each or $3 a pair.

A shipment of clothing—upwards of 1,000 garments have been contributed—will start on its way within the week. And the drive continues, under chairmanship of the student council president, 22-year-old Miss Lola Powell Plains, Kas., senior. Even farm machinery is included in tentative plans, says Miss Reeve.

the racetrack entrance, and the old man had to wait for a few moments while several women got off ahead of him.

"Look at them," he grunted. "Tonight they'll be at the dog-tracks trying to win back what the horses take from them this afternoon. They don't leave my elbow room at the windows."

Before starting down the aisle, the sharp-faced old man turned to me and said:

"Son, without that dollar you're nobody in this world. Remember that. I always keep $1,000 in my pocket, and nobody pushes me around."

Still muttering, he hobbled off the bus to the lonely pleasure of watching horses run around a dusty track. He had looked too long at life through the same grilled windows—for the real payoff that isn't there.

Warrensburg By First Round

DENVER, March 17—(P)—A team from Texas college ranks emerged from today's first round play in the National AAU basketball tournament as one of the most dangerous of the unseeded clubs in this big loop jamboree.

Playing as the official representatives of a Dallas realty firm (Majors and Majors) but made up entirely of Southern Methodist University varsity men, the Texans toyed with a team from the Topeka, Kas., Army Air Base wing by 80-37.

Paired in the second round against the Northrup Flying Wings of Hawthorne, Calif., the collegians will be favored to move into Wednesday's quarter-finals.

Other first round winners today included Fort Benning, Ga., Warrensburg, Mo., Glendale, Calif., City College and Columbus, Ind.

Briefs From the Training Camps

By the Associated Press
Speculation was renewed today over the possibility of Mickey Vernon, American league batting champion and his hard hitting Washington Senator teammate outfielder Stan Spence, being traded to the New York Yankees.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Yanks announced that he would confer with President Clark Griffith of the Nats within a few days.

It is believed that the Yanks are willing to part with Billy Johnson, Johnny Lindell, Steve Souchock or Jack Phillips and perhaps a pitcher in an effort to land Vernon from the Senators.

Other training camp notes:

LAKELAND, Fla. — Ted Williams, Johnny Pesky, Dom DiMaggio and Bobby Doerr, all slowed down by twinges, will remain behind today when the Boston Red Sox clash with the Detroit Tigers.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The Pittsburgh Pirates continued to cut their squad today by optioning pitchers Lee Howard and Jim Walsh to Indianapolis of the American Association.

Yesterday the Pirates released outfielder Stan Wentzel to Indianapolis.

TAMPA, Fla. — Manager Johnny Neun of the Cincinnati Reds named two of his most promising rookies, Kent Peterson and Eddie Erault for mound duty against the Washington Senators today.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Rookie Tommy Glaviano, subbing at third for veteran Whitey Kurowski who is still recuperating from an arm operation, has been playing a stellar role in the Cards' conquest of the exhibition circuit. His spectacular stop and long throw on Al Lakeman's grounder in the eighth inning with two out and a runner on third prevented Cincinnati from tying the score as the Red Birds defeated the Reds, 6-3 yesterday. Glaviano also started a Card attack with a double to right center.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Ellis Linsey, Nelson Potter and Jim Hilkey will pitch for the St. Louis Browns against Pittsburgh today.

PANAMA CITY — Jackie Robinson, Negro infielder playing for the Brooklyn Dodgers' Montreal farm club, continues his bid for a major league berth. The 27-year-old Royal star, whose chances of making the grade at second or third with the Dodgers are practically nil, played first base against the Brooks yesterday and handled 13 chances without a miscue and collected two of the Royals' six hits as the two teams battled to a 1-1 tie.

Sportsmen Lose 54 To 53 In Tourney

The Sportsmen basketball team sponsored by the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion in the IBAA tournament at Springfield, Mo., Monday met defeat in an exceptionally hard fought contest by the score of 54 to 53. They were beaten by the Savage Paint Co. team of Springfield.

Other results in the tournament include:

Stover, Mo., Oilers 71, Miami, Okla., Legion 56.

Anderson, Mo., 71, Creighton, Mo., Eagles 52.

Ozarks, Mo., Millers 49, Butler, Mo., Firestones 46.

The game was hard fought on the part of both teams, but substitutions on the part of the Sportsmen was believed to have resulted in their downfall. The Sedalians in the third quarter held a ten point lead, after which it began to dwindle away. With three minutes and 50 seconds to go before the end of the game it was a 50-50 tie.

Revolutionary "Sandwich" Bed Is Boon to Fracture Patients

Hospital patients with severe fractures, such as broken hips, are being saved from agonizing pain several times a day by a novel "sandwich" bed, known as the Stryker Frame. This rotating device enables a patient to be turned in bed quickly and painlessly, with a simple twist of the wrist. Turning fracture patients, an important part of the healing process, is a laborious job on a conventional bed, often jarring the patient into pained outcries. Heart of the "sandwich" bed is a mattress that rotates within a frame. When patient is on his back, a second mattress is placed tightly over his stomach and securely fastened by wing nuts at the ends of the frame. With patient thus "sandwiched," nurses at each end simply flip the bed over. Patient is then lying comfortably on his stomach. Photos below, taken at University Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, show "sandwich" process in contrast to old turning method.

Laborious old-fashioned method of turning a fracture patient in bed required team of nurses and painfully jarred the patient.

Dr. Smiley Is Banquet Speaker

The Women's Auxiliary to the Pettis County Medical Society gave a turkey banquet at the Congregational-Presbyterian church at 7 o'clock Monday evening with Mrs. A. L. Walter presiding and approximately 50 present. Speaker of the evening was Dr. Dean F. Smiley from the Bureau of Health Education department for the American Medical Headquarters in Chicago, being introduced by Mrs. D. P. Dyer.

The topic of his address was "Improving Medical Care." He appeared before the Smith Cotton high school students Monday morning at a special assembly to give a talk on "Bringing Modern Medicine to the Whole Public." He also appeared at the Rotary luncheon at noon and again at the Sorosis meeting, held Monday afternoon.

The tables for the banquet were beautifully decorated with spring garden flowers and green candles appropriate to the spirit of St. Patrick's day.

The Doctor Says

Mental Illness No Disgrace
By William A. O'Brien, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

In the past, patients suffering with mental disease were sent to institutions mainly to protect them and members of the community from possible injury. Patients now are advised to go to hospitals in the early stages of mental disease for treatment just as they might enter for any other illness.

Insanity, a lay term, includes the severe types of mental disease which had required treatment long before the patient was admitted to an institution. Although there are many kinds of mental disease, none of them are a disgrace to the individual or his family.

It is possible in most states for patients to enter mental hospitals by voluntarily seeking care, by bringing a certificate from two physicians, or by temporary commitment. Many states admit patients to public institutions on the recommendation of their family physician for certain treatments.

Laura W. Fitzsimmons in her "Textbook for Psychiatric Attendants" (Macmillan Company, 1947) urges nurses and attendants to put entering patients at ease by introducing them to the other patients in the ward and by explaining where things are located. As most patients enter mental hospitals reluctantly and as it is a trying ordeal for relatives, everything should be done to make it as easy as possible.

Modern mental hospitals have reception units in which patients are examined as thoroughly as on admission to other hospitals. Afterward they are sent to the appropriate section of the hospital for special treatment. Mental patients appreciate being in an institution where their condition is understood and where they receive special treatment.

Too Few Attendants
The greatest difficulty in the care of mental patients at this time is the shortage of staffs to give them the treatment they need. Too much emphasis has been placed on the need for new buildings and not enough upon

With "patient" securely "sandwiched" between mattresses, nurses give the frame a quick flip and the job is done.

Turned in a second, "patient" lies comfortably on her stomach, reading a book. Mattress she used when lying on back is removed

It is possible in most states for patients to enter mental hospitals by voluntarily seeking care, by bringing a certificate from two physicians, or by temporary commitment. Many states admit patients to public institutions on the recommendation of their family physician for certain treatments.

Laura W. Fitzsimmons in her "Textbook for Psychiatric Attendants" (Macmillan Company, 1947) urges nurses and attendants to put entering patients at ease by introducing them to the other patients in the ward and by explaining where things are located. As most patients enter mental hospitals reluctantly and as it is a trying ordeal for relatives, everything should be done to make it as easy as possible.

Modern mental hospitals have reception units in which patients are examined as thoroughly as on admission to other hospitals. Afterward they are sent to the appropriate section of the hospital for special treatment. Mental patients appreciate being in an institution where their condition is understood and where they receive special treatment.

Too Few Attendants
The greatest difficulty in the care of mental patients at this time is the shortage of staffs to give them the treatment they need. Too much emphasis has been placed on the need for new buildings and not enough upon

Dig Grave As Pickets March

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Mrs. Ida Watzelhan, 59, always had wished to be buried in the family plot in St. Michael's cemetery, Astoria, so when she died Saturday her cousins went to the cemetery to make arrangements.

The cousins, Louis Festig and Wallace P. Walsh, both 22, were told it was impossible—the cemetery's 26 gravediggers were on strike and no one had been buried there since Feb. 8.

Festig and Walsh then asked if they would be allowed to dig the graves themselves. Cemetery officials said they had no objections.

So today, while pickets of local 293, CIO United Cemetery Workers, marched outside the gates, Festig and Walsh dug a grave in the plot. They said burial would take place tomorrow.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what digestion was, felt strong as an ox? As you advance the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Any price is too high if it can be reduced

Pauler McBurnett

International Harvester announces $20,000,000 price reductions

We believe there is nothing more important to this country than to lower the prices of the goods that people buy.

The American people have insisted that the government withdraw from its attempts to control prices in peacetime. That places the responsibility where it belongs—in the hands of business and industry. Not all business can reduce prices now. Not all can reduce by the same amount.

Our company has felt a duty to act as promptly as possible. In our case, the business outlook now makes it possible to move toward the goal of lower prices. The only way out of the vicious circle of higher and higher prices is to break through.

We have taken this step not because of present competitive conditions nor because of a drop in demand from customers. We have taken it because of our belief that ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED.

These reductions, which will save the users of our products approximately $20,000,000 a year, will become effective before April 1, and will apply to a selected list of tractor, farm machine, motor truck, and industrial power products. Since we lose money on a few of our products, and barely break even on some others, these reductions will not apply to our entire line. Reductions will be made individually on products. Some will be cut more than others. Exact details will be announced as soon as possible.

Our ability to maintain this lower level of prices will depend in part on what happens to the prices and flow of materials that we buy from others. Because we believe price reduction is vital, we are willing to assume the risks that are involved.

These benefits to customers will depend, too, on uninterrupted production at reasonable wage levels. This is not a program that can be carried out if it is hampered by strikes or work stoppages.

Our employees have had substantial increases in pay, and wage questions are currently being discussed with many of the unions with which we deal. Stockholders have recently had an increase in dividend rate. Having considered the interests of these two groups, we are now making these price reductions for the benefit of the third group—our customers.

Business, to our way of thinking, has a social as well as an economic responsibility. This company has long followed the policy of operating in the interests of three groups—its customers, its employees and its stockholders. The duty of the management is to see that equal justice is done as between the three groups.

This price reduction program is another demonstration of our policy in action.

THE STORY: Sherry and Mona rent a cottage together in one of Holly wood's bungalow courts. Mona is sleek and sophisticated. She works in an insurance office and is making a play for her married boss, George Brothers. Sherry keeps house, wants to write, worries about Mona's interest in Brothers. After supper one evening, there is a knock on the door. A strange young man is standing outside. He wants to borrow an onion. Sherry says: "Of course. Won't you come in?"

HE nodded gravely and stepped in and closed the door. In a moment Sherry returned with the onion.

The young man accepted it. He said, "I thank you from my heart's bottom," very gravely. "But I should have told you! I am Sandro Duval. We live down at the end."

Sherry smiled. "Oh, of course! And you have three cats and a dog. The manager told me." Sandro looked pleased that they had been discussed.

"I'm Sherry Lynne," she said. "I'm French, aren't you?" Sandro said yes.

"I have been here 14 months though," he went on. "My father taught English at the university at home. That is why I speak it so good."

Sherry wanted to laugh, but she said, "You do speak it splendidly." Sandro said, "But I have been told that. Further, I have been told that except for my slight accent one would think me an American."

He seemed very pleased about that. "My name is Allesandro," he explained, "but here in America one does not have time for it."

He sat down on the davenport. It was 10 minutes later that the knocker banged again and Sandro sprang to his feet.

"That will be for me," he said. "I have a feeling." And Sherry opened the door to Tony.

He was slightly shorter than Sandro with broad shoulders and a military bearing. He was annoyed.

He said, "I'm sorry to bother you, but is Sandro Duval here?" Sherry said yes, and then, "Won't you come in?"

Tony stepped in and glared at Sandro. "Is that the onion for the stew?" he wanted to know.

Sandro handed him the onion. He said, "And this is Miss Sherry Lynne, who so kindly supplied it. Anthony Dietrich."

TONY'S heels clicked as he made a brief bend from the waist, and for the first time he really saw Sherry.

He said, "I'm sorry to follow him like this, but he forgets things." "That's perfectly all right," Sherry told him, but she thought, "And you wouldn't! Not ever. You'd remember if people were waiting for you and you'd worry about it."

Sandro said, "Tony is Austrian. Viennese. But he speaks English good also."

Tony laughed. It was sudden and infectious. "He thinks he hasn't any accent," he told Sherry. "It's worse than mine."

He turned to Sandro. "Do you want to eat or not?" After they had gone, Sherry closed the door and for a moment she stood and thought about Tony.

He was not so classically handsome as Sandro, but she thought him more attractive. They were probably the same age, but Tony was a man. She liked his chin and the strong sweep of his jaw. She smiled when she remembered his laugh. Then she went into the bedroom.

Mona was finishing the last cuff and looked up with cool amusement. "What happened?" she wanted to know. "It sounded like the League of Nations.

Sherry smiled.

She said, "They wanted an onion. They live at the end. One's Tony and one's Sandro. They're the ones who have three cats and a dog."

Mona said, "Sounds fascinating," and bit off her thread.

LATER, when they were in bed,

Sherry moved near Mona in the dark.

"Mona—" she began slowly—"don't you think it was funny that Mr. Brothers didn't get out and open the car door for you?"

There was silence for a minute, and in a rush of panic Sherry wondered if Mona was going to be angry. Then Mona's voice came cool and impersonally through the darkness.

She said, "Of course not, darling! It'd been silly in the rain." There was an almost imperceptible pause, then, "After all, you know, a business woman isn't accorded all the little attentions from men she works with."

Sherry agreed quickly. "That's just it! You work for him. Besides, he knows you know he's married and if you see him—have cocktails and things with him—don't you think he's going to think he can sort of—well, treat you differently?"

There was a silence again. When Mona spoke it was lightly. She said, "What you're trying to say in your own quaint way, darling, is that he won't respect me. You're right—if I didn't work in his office—if I'd had good clothes and a few diamonds and sent my chauffeur home so I could ride with him, he'd have got out to open the door, all right! Well, those are the things I'm going to have! But you've got to start somewhere."

Sherry lay still. Mona had said things like this before, but then there hadn't been any George Brothers.

She said, "But if you marry some rich man—"

Mona made a little sniffing sound. "Rich men marry rich girls. You've got to make the grade before you can do that, angel."
